Duck said.

They also will install T-lifts and remodel the building into a pro-shop, rental shop and concession area. The large hill will be divided into three runs and another hill will be prepared for beginners.

In all, the firm will invest about $150,000.

The hill is 150-175 feet high. Snowboarders will start at the top and slide down nearly to the Fox River.

"The hill hasn't been skied on for 10 years," Duck said. "Before it closed in 1982 we used to ski on it. That was when it was owned by a family.

"This is something we have been talking about for some time. When we remembered that hill, we agreed it would be perfect."

Kane County purchased the park about five years ago. Its officials have never designated a use for it, but it has been used by people on toboggans and sleds.
