VACATIONS UNLIMITED

How about a resort for a week-end of action or leisure. There is Illinois Beach State Park, not far north of Chicago. There are Lake Geneva and Fontana and Delavan, all good winter resorts a short distance up in Wisconsin. There are French Lick to the South and Pokagon to the north in Indiana. All offer a variety of diversions, such as skating, snowmobiles, toboggans, skiing, indoor swimming — and just plain relaxing.

No one can deny the quality and quantity of ski resorts and skiing in Michigan, either. The Upper Peninsula offers some of the best in the country. Illinois also has places for breaking an arm or leg or both, mostly for beginners and intermediates — Buffalo Park, Fox Trails, Terrapin Ridge, Norge Hills, Chestnut Mountain (a fine general purpose resort), Holiday Park, Four Lakes Village and Gander Mountain.

There's virtually no end to the week-end tours you can take. So if you've been longing for a longer vacation, now is the time to stop — and go.
