

Devil's Lake Hill Rates as Skiing Mecca

Adrian- (Special) -Prospect hill, near Devils lake, has become a top-notch skiing center in the opinion of the Toledo Ski club. It has spent much time and a sizable chunk of coin to rig up a minor league Lake Placid rendezvous with warming hut and uphill tow powered by an old automobile engine.

With the help of a group of Adrian college students the 1,400 foot hill has been covered with chicken wire fence to help harness the snow along the ski paths.

Although the tow only operates week-ends during the winter months when there's enough snow for skiing, the course is open to any one brave enough to attempt the downward rush.

The Toledo club has about 100 members, including both Toledo university and Adrian college students. Carl Staelin, a manufacturer, is president.
