

The bulldozer covered up some pieces of plasterboard, metal and other material that had accidentally been dumped into an area south of the city's new ski hill being developed on the south side of Waverly Hills Golf Course.